WHAT THEY ARE PAID FOR

The commissioners the other day refused to sanction, by the issue of a requisition, a purchase of goods made by a superintendent of a department without the proper authorization. It is to be hoped that the commissioners are not so stupid as to refuse to sanction a purchase of goods made by a superintendent of a department without the proper authorization. ## THE WESTERN OPINIONS OF RECIPIENCY

Most of the Western Opponents continue to suffer from lack of vision in the reciprocity agreement. They think of the measure as one which will not only benefit them but also benefit the United States. They are not aware of the fact that the measure will only benefit the United States and will be a disaster to the West. They are not aware of the fact that the measure will only benefit the United States and will be a disaster to the West.

Since we are pretty nearly all the Western Opponents, we could be asked or expected to contribute to the defeat of the agreement; and since they have contributed in various ways, "pressed down and running over." Their silence enabled their eastern colleagues, who are equally lacking in vision, to draw the conclusion that even in the West—where opinion is supposed to be most favorable to the agreement—there is a decided division of opinion upon it. By lending themselves to the line of argument that the Western Opponents represent, they have made it plain to the men who elected them that they are not to be counted on to support the measure.

The Western Opponents have had it in their power to check, if not to stop, the line of argument that the Western Opponents represent. They have made it plain to the men who elected them that they are not to be counted on to support the measure. They have made it plain to the men who elected them that they are not to be counted on to support the measure.

COMMERCIAL FREEDOM FOR CANADA

Formerly almost the long drawn-out discussion of the reciprocity agreement has served one good purpose. It has made perfectly clear that an overwhelming majority of Canadians are in favor of the measure. It has made perfectly clear that an overwhelming majority of Canadians are in favor of the measure. It has made perfectly clear that an overwhelming majority of Canadians are in favor of the measure.

It is difficult to believe that the conduct of men who have made their minds up from the first to oppose the measure, but who have backed the courage to come out openly and say so. Surely if these gentlemen had been hearing through "the period of doubt" they would have given some indication of it, as did Mr. Lake, or Mr. Appleton, hardly to they had open minds on the question they would have at least demanded that the measure of the agreement be not further delayed when it became apparent that the majority of the people wanted it. It is a pity that it is not further delayed when it became apparent that the majority of the people wanted it.

THE LONE GRAY WOLF

Montreal Herald: For once in a way, Mr. Foster in politics can offer him his full and sincere sympathy. There can be little doubt that he has rightly interpreted the intention or those on his own side of the House who made the run they did about the reciprocity of a certain number of members who go to London on the invitation of a Parliamentary committee in Great Britain. The objection of the opposition was in the belief of those who should know, simply and solely to offend Mr. Foster and make it impossible for him to win. When the vote was over and the House had adjourned, one of the Conservative members who went down to offer his sympathy to Mr. Foster, said that he had seen a good many such things done on the side of the House, but this was the most recent. Whichever had reached the House during the three weeks prior to the vote, there was a red in the face of Mr. Foster. But it does not seem to have been anyone on his own side who cared enough for the ex-Chief Minister to warn him of the pitfall being prepared for him. It was only when the argument was under his head that he realized the situation.

Most people would be disposed to think that, taking the House of Commons as it stands today, Mr. Foster's claim to recognition would go without question. In the House of Commons, indeed, he has not yet emerged, but since then he has fought his fight, he has come through with his life and his honor, he has been successful in retaining his position in the front ranks of Parliament by dint of his intellectual capacity. Those who start at him have profited by his example. The members who did not define the public pulse, they would think they might find him alone when it came to putting him in the place of his opponent. It is true that in the Conservative delegation from the Senate Sir Macdonald's speech was not included in the party's program, but it is true that the party did not insist that the general question of the reciprocity incident must be carried on consistently that it could not be excluded from the present crisis.

What seems fairly clear is that if there was any misunderstanding Mr. Foster was in one way to blame for it. The history of the invitation of the selection of members, of the choice of those who were to go, was well known to all. It is a pity that Mr. Foster did not have the members travel at their own expense, but he seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up.

Again, the discussion has made clearer than ever before that while the preference was a concession to British manufacturers, it was not a motive was, and its most notable effect has been, to benefit Canadian manufacturers by lowering the price of imported manufactures. Articles of British manufacture pay only one-third of the duties paid by similar articles of American manufacture, and competition keeps down the price by the difference; if the United States manufacturers succeed in selling his goods to Canadians he must cut down his prices, or else withdraw.

Lastly, the discussion has made clear that it is absolutely vain to expect any British preference on natural products in return for the Canadian preference on manufactured goods. The independence of such a preference is a tax on food imported into Britain from other countries than the British dominions, and the just issue general elections have made it abundantly certain that no such tax will ever be imposed by the British Parliament. In order to preserve themselves from extinction the Unionists have to abandon as a party what they have been calling their "tariff reform" platform. The Lloyd-George budget system of taxation has now become law in all its important features, and it is now a fact that it will maintain their own fiscal system regardless of the dominions, and the people of the dominions, whatever the others may do, will continue to maintain their own system of trade in natural products as an issue to promote their own prosperity. The chances are strongly in favor of their cordial ratification of the reciprocity agreement.

ABOUT THE "NO TARIFFS" DECADE

Editor Bulletin:
During the last few days I have been following with great interest the eloquent arguments and vigorous articles published against the tariff reform, and I am sure that the public mind is being educated by the "No Tariffs" decade.

Yesterday it was the Ministerial Association of Edmonton which heavily spent ten minutes, the effect was that of a bomb in the city. Today it was the Rev. Mr. Patterson who conducted the service, and it was clear that his weapons are of much more value than those of the "No Tariffs" decade.

It is to be hoped that he has hit the mark for the cause of the Canadian people, whose interests he has so much at heart, and for the safety of the Dominion.

What again that he makes a terrible noise and especially a big mistake. The history of the invitation of the selection of members, of the choice of those who were to go, was well known to all. It is a pity that Mr. Foster did not have the members travel at their own expense, but he seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up.

I hope that the effect of this blow-up will soon pass away, and we will see a way out of the difficulty. It is a pity that Mr. Foster did not have the members travel at their own expense, but he seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up. He seems to have given that up.

ELECTRICIANS MAY GO OUT ON STRIKE

Lengthy Conference Held Yesterday Between Board of Electrical Workers and the City Commissioners-Lack of Money Holds Up Work.

Determined efforts are being made by the electrical workers in the employment of the city, backed by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, to secure the adoption by the city of the Commission's lack of money holds up work.

A delegation composed of W. S. McDonald, chairman of the district council, J. B. Hillier, of the telephone department, and A. Chisholm, of the electric light department, spent several hours in conference with the commissioners yesterday afternoon.

The commissioners declared that they were anxious to give all employees of the city a "square deal," but that it would not be within their power to enter into a formal agreement with the electrical workers in favor of any increase of wages.

The electrical workers, on the other hand, declared that they were not prepared to accept a wage of $2.50 per day, and that they were prepared to go out on strike if their demands were not met.

The conference ended without any agreement being reached, and the electrical workers are expected to go out on strike tomorrow.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR POOR QUALITY.
Judgment for Defendant in Suit to Recover Damages from the City of Edmonton for the Poor Quality of the Water Supply.

The judgment for the defendant in the suit to recover damages from the city of Edmonton for the poor quality of the water supply was rendered yesterday by the court.

The court found that the city was not responsible for the poor quality of the water supply, and that the damages claimed by the plaintiff were not recoverable.

The court also found that the city was not liable for the damages claimed by the plaintiff, and that the judgment for the defendant was entered.

The court's decision was a victory for the city, and it is expected that the city will be able to continue its work without any interruption.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Subject of Address Before
Canadian Club by
W. F. Adams,

"The commission form of government in cities" was the subject of an address of unusual interest before the Canadian Club in the hall of trade rooms yesterday by W. F. Adams of Brooklyn, N.Y. The speaker, who is one of the most capable and kindly critics of American life, had expressed his astonishment at the degree in which the American people in other respects so eminently practical, had failed in the matter of municipal government. The government of cities was, he said, a matter of increasing importance. It had so many points of contact with the lives of the majority of people that it would be better far to have incompetent state government than to have such a pervasive failure in municipal government.

A Possible Solution. The solution of the difficulty was looked for by an increasing number of people in the commission form of government, which had its beginning with the determination which destroyed a large section of the city of Galveston. This emergency aroused the best men of the city in action and by their efforts a provisional government, like a sort of military committee of safety, was established by the state legislature. The astonishing rehabilitation of Galveston which followed aroused great interest in the commission.

Under most of the state constitutions cities could not be governed by appointed bodies. Washington, by reason of the fact that it is under the control of the federal government, is really the only city in the United States which is administered by an appointed commission.

Ten cities in Texas followed the lead of Galveston. Then came the Iowa Molasses system. There a popular movement resulted in the appointment of a committee of three hundred citizens with power to choose between the Galveston and Indianapolis plans, the latter being a system evolved by scientific students of cities.

The Galveston plan was the one chosen. It was ignored by the legislature when first presented. The citizens, however, were determined, and so far from abating their demands, added to the system the more radical measures of the initiative, the referendum and the recall, which ever since have been considered features peculiarly essential to all the more recent charters.

The System Described. The system is a small council elected by the people at large. Usually there is a mayor and four councilmen. What is called the election primary plan was devised, under which two elections are held, at the first of which two candidates are selected for the position of mayor and eight for those of aldermen. The final results are settled at the second election. The results of the election are a body of five men who combine in themselves the positions of mayor and aldermen and also the judicial functions in the sense that they appoint the police magistrate of the city. The mayor is ex-officio superintendent of public affairs, and supervises all departments of which he is the friendly critic and censor. Each member of the council is appointed by the council superior, head of a department. The council as a body appoints and dismisses all other officials in the employ of the city, save a small group of higher executive officials, who, however, may be appointed or removed arbitrarily, and who are, in effect, the executive heads of the council. The routine officials are appointed under a system borrowed from the English civil service.

Chicago's Greater Interest. One of the effects of this reformed system of municipal government, said the speaker, was the greater interest taken in municipal matters by the citizen. Delicts had been turned into surprises and tax rates reduced. Even men who were "politicians" under the old system had expressed their satisfaction with the reform which had been effected. Digby was added to the office of commission, for the very good reason that he was no longer responsible to the machine organization which had its meeting place in some back saloon and was controlled by saloon keepers, pugilists and worse. At one time in the history of municipal life in the United States to be elected to run for alderman was considered an imposition that you were the fool of men who were laying up millions by graft and dishonesty.

Many Cities Adopt. The system had now been generally adopted that it was scarcely possible any longer to keep a record of the number of cities which had adopted some modification of the system. The speaker continued his address with a number of telling anecdotes and quotations, and was listened to throughout with the closest interest. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded by Col. Edwards.

WINNIPEG BLOCK SOLD.

Union Trust Co. Will Build a Hand-some Office at Corner of Main and Lombard.

Winnipeg, May 17.—The block at the corner of Main and Lombard streets, has been sold by Messrs. Boutwell and Black to the Union Trust Co., who intend building a handsome office building on the site. This is an old landmark, and during the recent excavations for the new bank of Commerce building, adjoining its party wall, was found.

MORE DETAILS OF TRAGEDY IN NORTH

Inspector Fitzgerald Was Last of the Party to Succumb.

Ottawa, May 17.—Additional details of the tragedy in which Inspector Fitzgerald and his three companions of the Northwest Mounted Police lost their lives last winter on patrol between Fort MacPherson and Dawson are furnished by the official report of Corporal Dempster, who was in charge of the search party sent out from Dawson. The story of the finding of the remains of the ill-fated party and the melancholy diary of Fitzgerald has already been told, but Corporal Dempster's report sheds further light upon the causes of the disaster and supplies recitals which add to the tragic nature of the ultimate catastrophe. From this report it would appear that "the cause of the catastrophe was the fact that Fitzgerald relied upon Constable Carter as a guide but that the latter had failed to find the way to the principal pass on the route.

Camps Close Together.

The last entry in Inspector Fitzgerald's diary was evidently made while the party was proceeding down the Troll river to the Peel river, Corporal Dempster of the relief party says that at this point he commenced to fear the worst on account of the camp the Fitzgerald's patrol made on their retreat being now so close together.

On March 21, about three miles below Portage of Troll river he found the bodies of Constable Kinney and Taylor. There was a camp kettle half full of mouse head cut into small pieces which had been boiled for soup. The two men lay side by side, the kettle being at their feet. Each lay on his back.

Dempster's report continues: "They had three Alaska sleeping bags, one under and two over them. Constable Taylor evidently committed suicide by blowing the top of his head off. It is quite probable that he had become insane at the terrible hardships which he had undergone."

"It seems to me that Inspector Fitzgerald had had undernourishment, was very weak to travel and left the equipment they had with Carter and passed on towards Fort MacPherson with the hope of getting relief to send back."

"This they failed to accomplish. About ten miles further on he and Carter yielded up their lives. Carter succumbed first and was laid out by Inspector Fitzgerald, who probably died shortly afterwards."

Wanted to Shadows. The report of Commissioner Perry, Regina, who transmitted the diary and the records to the Mounted Police

"I COULD NOT LIVE"

WITHOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Writes The Treasurer Of

Calcedonia Township

Penashville, Ont., Jan. 23rd, 1910.

For thirty-five years (and I can now say more over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation.

No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure.

About two years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John C. Frémont regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give this fruit medicine a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for "Fruit-a-tives," I am satisfied that I could not live.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver—causes an abundance of bile—and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. Get a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

All were powerful young men and in the best of health and courage when they left on their ill-fated journey.

Col. Perry comments: "That they should have lost their lives is greatly deplored. It is the greatest tragedy that has occurred in this force during its existence of thirty-seven years. Their loss has been felt most keenly by every member of the force, but we cannot but feel a thrill of pride at the endeavor they made to carry out their duty and at their gallant struggle for their lives."

Civic Addresses to the King.

Ottawa, May 16.—Earl Grey has received an invitation from the secretary of state for the colonies that it is the King's pleasure with regard to the presentation of addresses from civic and other bodies in the Dominion on the occasion of His Majesty's coronation that such addresses shall be presented in the ordinary way through the governor general and secretary of state for the colonies as it will be possible for the Hon. Mr. Grey to receive them from delegations.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Co. Ltd., is founded on two propositions, concerning neither of which, is there the slightest doubt. One is that the demand for Portland Cement in the Edmonton district alone, which means a market more than equal to the entire out-put of the proposed plant; and at a price exceeding $3.00 per barrel. The other is that the company can manufacture cement from the materials which it owns at a cost not exceeding 78c a barrel.

The most successful cement plant constructor in either the United States or Canada has been engaged to build the plant and operate the mill the success of the enterprise has been established beyond question.

The management of the company is in the hands of men who in the people of Edmonton know and who can be absolutely trusted to handle this great enterprise with integrity and success.

ARTICLE NUMBER TEN

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company is founded on two fundamental facts: The rapidly growing demand for Portland Cement, and the materials for Cement Manufacture which the Company owns. The growth of the Portland Cement market has no precedent in industrial history. The enormous increase in building alone would have enlarged the demand for Portland Cement beyond anything heretofore known in the history of manufacturing. But in addition to the unprecedented increase in the use of Portland Cement for construction purposes, its use has also extended to a thousand purposes for which it was not originally considered. And all of this is why the production of Portland Cement has increased twenty-two thousand per cent. in the past twenty years; and why its production increased 11,435,549 barrels in 1909 and nearly 12,000,000 barrels in 1910; and why the increase in production in the next ten years will be still greater. The building and railroad construction in Canada alone will increase the demand for Portland Cement on this side of the International line at least 3,000,000 barrels annually. And only two new mills are now contemplated; one at Winnipeg which will ship one of its materials from the far East, and the mill of The Edmonton Portland Cement Company.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company owns materials sufficient for the manufacture of AT LEAST 12,500,000 barrels of Cement, and no one yet knows how much more. On the basis of present prices, this means a profit of approximately $2.00 a barrel. What the future profit may become depends only upon the increasing disadvantages of new mills.

As has been before stated, the two necessary materials for Portland Cement Manufacture have no geological association and are only found near together by mere chance. The whole American Continent has been prospected for Cement materials and the workable deposits are all known. And the Cement company that has both the materials for Portland Cement manufacture near together, has something that is worth more than gold ore ton for ton.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company can manufacture Cement under PRESENT CONDITIONS at a profit of $2.00 per barrel. As the demand for Portland Cement increases and the disadvantages of competing plants and high freight charge for long hauls, advances the market price of Cement—as the conditions are sure to do—the remarkable advantages of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company will become more and more valuable to its shareholders.

There is no question either as to the market, or the materials. What these mean to the Edmonton Portland Cement Company are beyond any question at all. The only question which any prospective purchaser of stock can raise is that of management. And that is easily answered.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company is purely a local enterprise. Its directors are from the very best men in this community. And if such men as Lieutenant-Governor Bulvea, Mr. S. H. Smith, Mr. J. H. Gariepy and their associates can not be depended upon to administer the affairs of this Company strictly in the interests of its shareholders—then who can?

The construction and operation of the mill will be in the hands of the most capable and experienced men that can be found in either the Dominion or the States. Mr. R. D. Hassan, the constructor, and Mr. T. J. Klossoski, the engineer, have built seventeen Cement Mills in Canada and the States, including the famous International Mill at Hull, and every one of them is a success. Mr. Hassan and Mr. Klossoski have contracted not only to build a mill of the most modern and efficient design and construction, permanently built and complete in every detail, but they have also agreed to operate the mill for one hundred days after its completion, and demonstrate its perfection in every respect.

No such an investment as this was ever before offered to the public of this community. It contains all the attractions of a speculation and all the advantages of an absolutely sure investment. It has the attractions of a speculation for the reason that the shares are sure to increase in value and the shareholders are sure to receive a dividend of at least 40 per cent. or more. It has all the advantages of an absolutely stable investment because the property owned by the Company makes the future of the enterprise absolutely sure.

The citizen of Edmonton who has $100 or more of idle cash has only to decide whether or not an investment in which he should double his money in two years and multiply it by five in five years, and upon which he can depend for dividends of 40 per cent., is good enough for him.

In a few days these shares will all be gone. More stock has already been subscribed for than was ever before sold in Edmonton in any enterprise. And when this stock is once all allotted the shares are certain to at once go above par.

This proposition is of much importance to the City of Edmonton and of great value to its citizens, and deserves the support of every one in this community. The stock books are open at the Parlors of the King Edward Hotel. Shares are $100 each and reasonable terms of payment can be arranged.
